Dear Sir

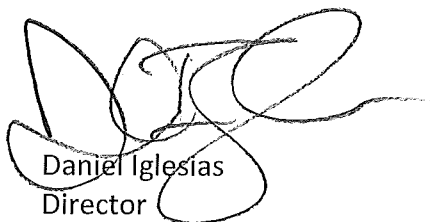

Charles Weston Plantings – Red Hill Nature Reserve

The Red Hill Regenerators have for some time championed the unique red flowering natives that were planted by Charles Weston, c1917 under a plan determined by Walter Burley Griffin. Designating that the appropriately named Red Hill should be adorned by red flowering plants, these plantings are quite possibly one of the first environmental enhancement plantings anywhere in Australia.

As Government land manager for Red Hill Nature Reserve I would be pleased to recommend and support the Red Hill Regenerator's Heritage Council listing nomination for the plantings as outlined in the Red Hill Regenerators submission.

Should you require further clarification, I can be contacted on 6207 6997.

Your sincerely

Daniel Iglesias
